Description: Each summer at Mt. Hood Kiwanis Camp, over 500 campers with developmental disabilities, ages 12 and up, spend a week at MHKC's fully-accessible 22-acre campsite in the Mt. Hood National Forest. They enjoy horseback riding, arts and crafts, singing camp songs, swimming, fishing, flying down the zip line, canoeing and whitewater rafting. All activities at Mt. Hood Kiwanis Camp are adapted for campers of all abilities by a skilled staff using highly specialized equipment.

Counselors come from all walks of life, usually students working for class credit or volunteers seeking a meaningful new experience. They provide 1:1 support to a person with a developmental disability, become friends, have fun together and support them through daily routines.
